Summary of My Education, Background and Work

My professional career has been dedicated to service as an institutional architect in government and industry. I added value to my public and private sector teams by creating strong partnerships with clients, consultants and builders to produce sound and enduring design solutions in my work on over 100 well-planned capital program master plans, campuses and buildings throughout North America, and in public projects in California. I've appreciated the opportunity to advance our profession through leadership in AIA Knowledge Communities, work for the College of Fellows, as a mentor and Citizen Architect and in the important work of AIA California.

My Philosophy, Goals and Objectives in Continuing Work for AIA California

I’ve been fortunate to be able to apply my education and skills and have a gratifying career as an architect, program and project manager, while supporting my family and contributing to my community. I’m confident that my work on important public and private capital building programs is providing a long-term benefit to the public based on thoughtful planning, design and construction of buildings which are functional, accessible and sustainable, utilized the best means and methods of construction available, and are lasting and affordable to operate and maintain.

I’m especially gratified to have inspired others through team leadership, mentorship, and encouragement. I’m pleased to be a model for other women and men aspiring toward the potential for architects to thrive in careers in practice as well as in project and construction management, construction, engineering and government or corporate roles.

I hope to continue this important work as your 1st Vice President/President Elect of AIA California in 2021-22. It is my vision that our work together can insure a diverse, equitable, and inclusive profession and an economically, socially and physically resilient future for all of you, our successors and future architects.
